

PHOTO STORIES with international students

#intercultural #students #challenges #best practice #media production #storytelling

- ✓ ECTS-credits
- ✓ Regular participation in the seminar : 48555
PS: Interkulturalität und Praxis
- ✓ Writing a project paper

What is it about?

The aim is to interview and portray international students who have been studying at the University of Passau for some time and are completing or have completed the iStudi-Pass career orientation programme for international full-time students.

The central questions should be:

1. Tell us about your start in Passau: hurdles, culture shocks, challenges
2. Talk about the iStudi-Pass module programme as an example of best practice to help you find your way around and get started and progress more easily

The aim of this photo story project is to give international students a platform to talk about their needs and experiences and to act as role models for other internationals. The photo stories are intended to convince more internationals that it is worth taking part in the iStudi-Pass programme. Not only to help them find their way better in the world of work later on, but also to help them go through their studies stronger, cope more easily with the new culture and feel more at home and seen.

What do I have to do?

Tasks in the practical part of the project seminar are

- Creating a culturally sensitive question concept for interviews with senior international students
- Conduct and write up interviews
- Take meaningful photos of the senior internationals
- Preparing photos and text for an exhibition (as well as cross-media use for websites and social media)

IMPORTANT to note

This project is carried out exclusively as part of the project seminar 48555: Interculturality and Practice, two-week block course in presence:
