

The Famine on Screen

Alexander Wienerberger

A child died on the streets of Kharkiv, in 1933. Photo from Cardinal Theodore Innitzer's collection (Archives of the Diocese of Vienna). Photo taken by Eng. A. Wienerberger. Photo documents provided by prof. Vasyl Marochko (Institute of History of Ukraine, National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine). - TsDKFFA of Ukraine named after H.S. Pshenychnyi.

Wienerberger

Holodomor in Ukraine

- Davis Simanis, Maria's Silence (2024)
- Purges of ethnic communities
- Maria Leiko
- Agnieszka Holland, Mr Jones (2019)
- Famine in Hughesovka
- Gareth Jones

Jones' Diary

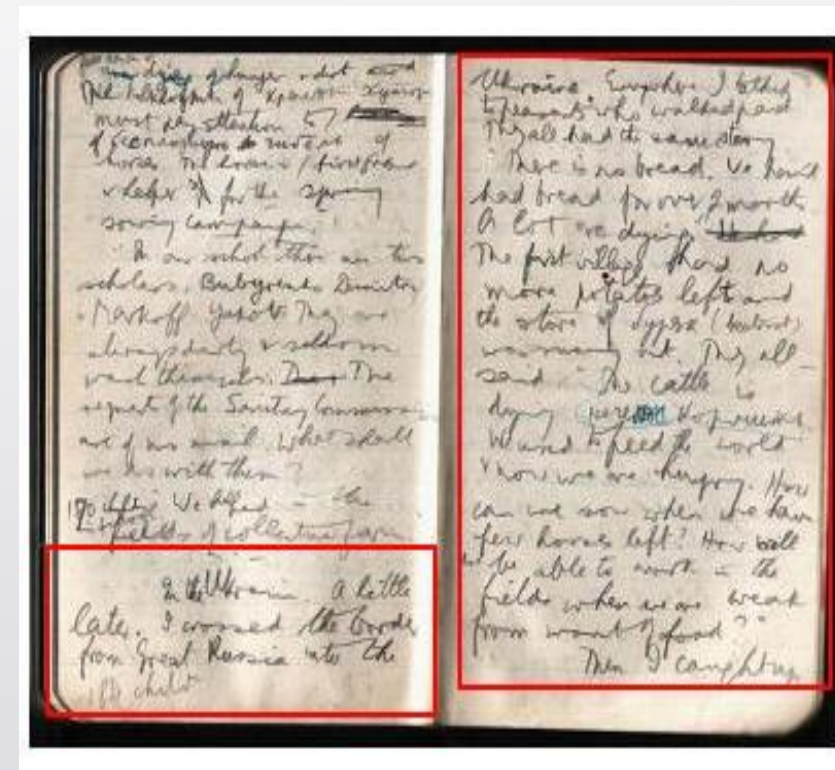

In the Ukraine. A little later. I crossed the border from Great Russia into the Ukraine. Everywhere I talked to peasants who walked past – they all had the same story;

“There is no bread – we haven’t had bread for over 2 months – a lot are dying.”

The first village had no more potatoes left and the store of БУРЯК (beetroot) was running out.

They all said ‘the cattle is dying. (Nothing to feed.) НЕЧЕВО КОРМИТЬ.

We used to feed the world now we are hungry. How can we sow when we have few horses left? How will we be able to work in the fields when we are weak from want of food? Then I caught up...

Documentary

- Kalila Umarov, Great Famine (Naubet: Velikii dzhut, 1992), a 30-minute documentary made for Kazakh Telefilm

Fiction Films: Around the Famine

- Bolat Sharip: Zamanai (1997). [Sabit Kurmanbekov: The Returnee (Oralman 2017)]
- Ermek Tursunov: Stranger (Zhat, 2015)

Biopics

- Erlan Nurmukhambetov: Kanysh (2022), on K Satpaev
- Murat Eszhan: Mirjakyp: Wake Up, Kazakh! (Mirzhakyp. Oyan, Kazakh, 2023)

Fiction Films: About the Famine

- Marina Kunarova: Crying of the Great Steppe (Plach' velikoi stepi, 2021)
- Aisultan Seitov: Qash (2022)
- Ardak Amirkulov: The Land Where the Winds Stood Still (Zhel toktagan zher, 2023),
- Bekzat Elubay: White House (Ak boz uy, 2023).

The Land Where the Winds Stood Still

The Land Where the Winds Stood Still

