

There are different options for

Master theses

in the scope of the BMBF-Project

Migration and Translocality in West Africa (MiTra|WA)

lead by the

Chair of Human Geography, Prof. Dr. Malte Steinbrink

- Literature analysis on migration in West Africa
- Migration, translocal livelihoods and...
 - gender,
 - education,
 - land-use change,
 - climate/environmental change,
 - resilience,
 - COVID-19,
 - Housing, mobility, transport.
- Other topics relevant for development research in the context of migration in West Africa

This might be an option for you:

- if you are a master student at the University of Passau in ICBS, Development Studies, Geography, et.al.
- if you are interested in getting in touch with research in an international research cooperation.

Depending on the topic, the COVID-19 situation, funding and other factors, there is a chance for you to conduct field work in Ghana, Nigeria or Burkina Faso within the framework of the MiTra|WA project.

It might also be useful to have a look at the book “Africa on the Move: Migration, Translocal Livelihoods and Rural Development in Sub-Saharan Africa” by Malte Steinbrink.

This publication is available as an E-Book in the university library.

For your application, please send a short CV (max 2 pages) and a short expose (max 1.500 words) as one pdf-file to: Stefanie.wehner@uni-passau.de. Please do not attach other references or certificates.

The project is running until 2024, applications are always welcome without fixed deadlines.
